Release of Jefferson Davis.

The following is the memorial to the President adopted by the Texas Legislature, asking for the release of Jefferson Davis:

Excellency Andrew Johnson,
President of the United States:

The people of Texas, through their Senators and Representatives, deeply sympathizing with the misfortune of our fellow-citizen, Jefferson Davis, in his deprivation of those comforts which are found in the responses of our hearts around the domestic fires, can only express to your Excellency the sorrow common to all the people of the Southern States at his continued confinement in prison, and the unfortunate circumstances which have thus far prevented his trial, if he is a criminal.

In view of the fact that Jefferson Davis became the chosen leader of an unsuccessful revolution by the universal acclaim of the people of the States adjacent to it—none participating more warmly than the people of Texas, and more willing to share the burdens of that revolution or accept in good faith the determination of its issues—view, too, of the fact that your Excellency has long since issued your proclamation, declaring the restoration of peace throughout all the States; in view, also, of the enlightened progress which, at this day, marks the march of the American people, longer confinement of Jefferson Davis is, in the opinion of your Excellency, believed to be in violation of the spirit of the age, and of the teachings of Christianity. Have not demands of justice already been amply satisfied? "Vengeance is mine, saith the Lord." Is the vindication of the National power still necessary? Has not the sword been accomplished the work? "A redoubled with blood—homes desolated and desolated—cities and towns with little left but blackened, and empty walls—fields, once with harvests and crops, now silent waste and barren—are sufficiently silent for that purpose." Visit not their punishment upon the person whom whose pardon we earnestly entreat. The dark clouds of war, which four years enveloped our beloved country, have passed away. We are grateful much from the wise and prudent administration of your Excellency. May we not entertain the hope that Jefferson Davis will be permitted to breathe once more the atmosphere of freedom—that he will be restored to that people who, having rejoiced in him in a period of prosperity, sorrow for him in the hour of adversity.

Is the crowning act of magnanimity of the great and chivalrous people whom you represent, release the prisoner, so that the last vestige of animosity between the two sections of common country may be removed, then the thrilling notes of gladness will accompany the magic voice of peace.

Is we ask in the name of the people of Texas.
